PRICE THREE CENTS.

$117,989,481 In Appropriations

For State's Fixed Expenditures—Million Over Last Year—Total Will Exceed Last Year by About $1,000,000.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, March 11.—Members of the legislature today had before them the annual appropriation bill calling for fixed expenditures in the state for the fiscal year. Appropriations made for the same purpose last year totaled $116,945,052.

A statement issued by the fiscal leaders said that the budget—this includes every cent that will be spent by the state in the next year—will probably total $160,330,348. Last year's budget was about $156,000,000.

A dozen or more special appropriation bills are passed at every session. Bills providing for $24,988,886 for highway construction and improvement, already have passed both houses and have been signed by Governor Smith. Other special bills call for appropriations of $3,500,000 for indemnities for slaughtered tubercular cattle; $1,500,000 for improvement of state parks and $1,495,000 for the New York-New Jersey tunnel.

The fiscal leaders said today they were very certain the direct tax on real property would be decreased for the next year by at least one-half mill. This would mean a saving to the taxpayers of approximately $3,000,000.

More Sensational Than Oil Probe

Will Be Daugherty Trial if Halt the Rumors "Pan Out"—Mexican Revolt Subject of First Questions.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, March 11.—A storm of sensational forecasts today on the eve of the "public trial" of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty before a special senate committee.

While members of the committee guarded their plans with the utmost secrecy, the following developments became known:

1. Evidence was laid before the committee involving certain high government officials in stock market gambling on the strength of "tips" received from within the government service.

2. Elias H. Mordimer, chief government witness in the veterans' bureau investigation, was subpoenaed in connection with the alleged stock transactions.

3. New information reached the committee concerning the charges that oil interests conspired to foment a revolution in Mexico, unopposed by the department of justice.

4. Local managers of the telephone companies in San Antonio, Texas, were subpoenaed with instructions to bring all telegrams sent or received there by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall or Edward L. Doheny. This action was linked to the alleged Mexican revolt conspiracy.

5. The committee decided to launch its own investigation, regardless of action by the Walsh oil inquiry, into a story that the late Jake Hamon, Oklahoma oil king, sought to trade Oklahoma votes at Chicago in 1920 for a cabinet post.

6. Subpoenas for seven Republican political leaders in New York and Ohio were in the mails today.

7. Secret subpoenas were issued for several prominent Texas oil men, prominent in politics, in connection with the alleged Hamon deal.

8. The summoning of Mordimer, who was the chief accuser of Colonel Charles H. Forster in the veterans' bureau investigation, was guarded closely by committee members. His prospective testimony was said to be of a highly sensational character.

9. "We have direct evidence of stock gambling by government officials," said Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, committee chairman. "Some higher-ups are involved. We expect to be able to produce records of these stock transactions and some other documentary evidence of a highly sensational character."

10. The first subject to be taken up by the committee, tomorrow, will be the alleged Mexican revolt.

State Senate Votes To Abolish Council Of Farms and Markets

Majority Leader Walker Locks Senators In Until He Gets Action On Big Calendar.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, March 11.—With the doors locked and a sergeant-at-arms posted at every exit, the senate early today completed work on a calendar carrying 200 measures. Several bills recommended by Governor Smith were passed shortly before the upper house adjourned at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

For the first time in nearly two weeks all of the 26 Democratic senators were present when the session opened at 8:30 o'clock last night. Senator James J. Walker, the Democratic leader, at once issued orders to have the doors locked so the senators could not leave until the calendar had been disposed of. Senator Mark W.

Allen, Democrat of Staten Island, who was ill last week, was in his seat, but his face plainly showed traces of sickness. By a strict party vote, 26 to 22, the senate passed the Straus bill to abolish the state council of farms and markets. A similar bill was passed by the senate last year but killed in the Republican assembly. A bill to create a minimum wage commission in the state labor department for women and children in industry, passed by a vote of 32 to 16. Six Republicans, Senators Cole, Ferris, Lowman, Hewitt, Mastick and Whitley voted with the Democrats. Several measures providing for statutory consolidation of minor state bureaus and commissions, as recommended by the governor, were passed during the closing hours of the session.

Wrangling Over Rum Resumed

With New Enforcement Bills In Both Houses, Capitol Again Buzzes With Wet and Dry Discussion.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, March 11.—State wide prohibition enforcement today became one of the leading topics of discussion among members of the legislature.

Assemblyman Jenks, Broome Republican, and chairman of the assembly judiciary committee, is the sponsor for the state wide dry enforcement measure drafted by a committee of the district attorneys' association.

Nearly a dozen up-state Republican assemblymen, who come from bone dry districts, were anxious to introduce the bill. Speaker Machold, Republican leader of the lower house, decided, however, that Assemblyman Jenks, as chairman of the judiciary committee, was the logical man.

Dry enforcement bills are now before both houses. Two weeks ago Senator John Knight, Republican of Wyoming, introduced a prohibition measure in the upper house. The Knight bill eliminates the double jeopardy and the search and seizure without a warrant.

While double jeopardy has been wiped out in the bill sponsored by Assemblyman Jenks, search and seizure of liquor without a warrant has not entirely been eliminated. In this respect the measure follows the old Rahms law. Under certain conditions prohibition agents would be permitted to search and seize liquor without a warrant.

Dry law advocates claim there are more than enough votes in the assembly to pass the bill drafted by the district attorneys.

Local managers of the telephone companies in San Antonio, Texas, were subpoenaed with instructions to bring all telegrams sent or received there by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall or Edward L. Doheny. This action was linked to the alleged Mexican revolt conspiracy.

Mrs. Smith Speeding East

By Telegram to The Freeman. Cleveland, O., March 11.—Mrs. A. H. Smith, widow of the late president of the New York Central, was speeding to New York on a special train which has been accorded a clear right of way over all railroad lines since it left Los Angeles a few minutes after word was received there Saturday night of Smith's death.

The train was due to pass through Cleveland shortly before noon. Chicago, March 11.—The record breaking run from Los Angeles to Chicago of the train bearing Mrs. Alfred H. Smith, widow of the president of the New York Central lines, was made in 49 hours and 15 minutes. Regular running time is 68 hours. The train lost but 15 minutes in transferring from Santa Fe to New York Central lines. It left here for New York at 3:45 a. m.

Mrs. Smith expected to arrive at her home at Chappaqua, Westchester county, New York, at 9 o'clock tonight, making a record coast to coast run.

The Rondout creek is open from the mouth to the Wilbur bridge.

Grant, a wealthy biscuit manufacturer, today presented a $10,000 automobile to Premier Ramsay MacDonald so he would no longer have to travel between his home and office in the subway. Finds in $575 For Mrs. Tyron Jury Awards Her That Amount for Damages Her Truck Sustained in Collision—Mrs. Rahlers Sued for Payment of Bill.

In the action brought by Mary C. Tyron against Garfield Reynolds to recover for damages to a Ford truck owned by her, the jury which heard the evidence brought in a sealed verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $575 when supreme court convened Monday afternoon with Judge Howard presiding. Mrs. Tyron who has the contract to construct the state highway from Bearsville to Willow had sent one of her Ford trucks to Herkimer to bring down some household goods. When the truck arrived at Fleischmanns there was a collision with another truck which was owned by defendant. The Ford truck was badly damaged and she sued for damage and loss of services of the truck which was used on the road construction job.

Van Eiten & Cook appeared for plaintiff and Frederick Melior for defendant who was insured.

The action brought by the Kingston Lumber Corporation against Augusta Rahlers and another, an action for goods sold and delivered and contract of guaranty, was taken up for trial. A jury was secured and before the opening of the case Frank W. Brooks who appeared for defendants moved for a dismissal on the grounds that the complaint did not set forth facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action and on other grounds. After argument by attorneys the motion was granted. John W. Eckert, attorney for plaintiff, moved to amend the complaint and this was granted by the court. Mr. Brooks then asked that the case go over the term pleading surprise at the complaint as amended and stated that he was unable to meet the complaint as amended with proper testimony. The case was put over the term, plaintiff being granted time to serve an amended complaint and defendant time in which to serve an answer.

The action grows out of the purchase of building material for the erection of a house on Broadway by defendant. Plaintiff claiming that the defendant agreed to pay for material supplied amounting to $1,947.18.

The action brought by the Union Pacific Railroad Company against the Nitro Powder Company, an action for damages for abating a nuisance, was announced as settled. Judge A. T. Clearwater appears for plaintiff and Judge J. M. Fowler for defendant.

Smith's Crossing Plan.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, March 11.—Governor Smith's proposal to place the elimination of grade crossings under the superintendent of public works is expected to pass the Democratic senate. Speaker Machold, the Republican leader of the assembly is strongly opposed to this plan. The governor also would have the state loan its credit to railroads and municipalities to provide for the elimination of dangerous crossings.

The Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 4 will hold its regular meeting at the school on Wednesday afternoon, March 12, at 3:30 o'clock.

Thief Took Only Shoes For Lizzie

Rest of Automobile Family Unprovided For, But Eleven Shoes Were Stolen for Henry's Favorite.

The oil station of Dutcher & Haley on the Port Ewen road near the Esopus entrance to the Port Ewen Bridge was burglarized some time Monday night and automobile shoes and inner tubes valued at about $130 were stolen, besides a small quantity of cigarettes.

Entrance was effected by forcing open a false door after unsuccessful attempts had been made with a chisel or screw driver to force open false shutters.

Eleven shoes, all for Ford cars, were stolen and eleven inner tubes. This represented about one-half the stock of shoes, but all the shoes which were left are for other makes of cars. The tubes represented less than half the stock taken. The case from which the cigarettes were stolen contained a large quantity of cigarettes and a big stock of cigars. The cigars were not touched.

It is believed that the thieves did not use an automobile, or if they did, that it was left standing some distance from the oil station. The articles stolen would make a fairly good load for two thieves to carry, or one thief could carry them away by making two trips.

The matter was reported this morning to Sheriff Wells, who with Undersheriff Haulenbeck visited the place and made an investigation.

Another Punch Board Seized

Monday evening Policeman Burger visited the place of Peter Mercat at No. 120 North Front street, and seized a punch board and a quantity of cigarettes. The police are carrying on an active campaign against the possession of punch board and lottery machines.

Through an error it was stated Monday that a punch board was seized in Joseph Berbo's Old Home-stand on Abel street Saturday. The item should have stated the board was seized at the store of Joseph Berbo at No. 17 Hasbrouck avenue.

"Ladies' Night" At Rondout Lodge

Monday night was "Ladies' Night" at Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. & A. M., and there was a large attendance of the members and their wives and lady friends. The entire evening had been turned over to a social time, and a most attractive program had been arranged for the occasion by P. H. Carey, master of the lodge. Owing to the fact that Mr. Carey had been called south by the critical illness of his mother, he was unable to be present and Senior Warden Clarence S. Rowland presided in his place.

During the evening an orchestra rendered a fine musical program and several selections were sung by the recently organized Masonic Male Quartet, composed of the Messrs. Deyo, Blumendorf, Finley and McDonough, with Arthur Alton at the piano.

Two professional entertainers, Mr. Boyd and Miss Lincoln, both of New York city, were then introduced and for two hours rendered a varied program of songs, stories and sketches. Mr. Boyd is the possessor of a fine baritone voice, while Miss Lincoln has a charming soprano voice. Their selections were all thoroughly enjoyed and they were forced to respond to a number of encores.

At the close of the program a social hour was held and refreshments served.

The program for the remainder of the month at the lodge is the first degree, March 17; the third degree, March 24; and the second degree, March 31.

Hope Of Early Spring Fades As Big Storm Sweeps Atlantic Coast

Gale Reaches 80 Miles An Hour And Washington Has Six Inches Of Slush—Traffic Delayed.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, March 11.—All hopes of an early spring were dissipated along the Atlantic seaboard today under a torrent of cold rain and snow.

A storm which centered off the Virginia Capes last night moved northward this morning, accompanied by shifting gales and leaving havoc in its wake.

In Washington and surrounding states, telegraph and telephone wires succumbed to the weight of accumulated ice and snapped under the strain, reducing communication to a minimum. The capital was buried in six inches of slush.

The weather bureau ordered storm warnings posted all the way from Delaware breakwater to Portland, Maine, and advised all shipping to be on the alert.

New York, March 11.—A terrific sleet and wind storm which raged along the Atlantic coast from Hatteras to Nantuxet enveloped New York today, delaying traffic, causing considerable damage and resulting in one death and injuries to scores.

Max Netkin, 32, was killed by an automobile at Third avenue and 102nd street when a blinding rain caused him to walk into the path of the car. Henrietta Epstein, 23, 1364 Washington avenue, and Lillian Kramer, 25, 1326 Washington avenue, were seriously injured when the strong wind literally blew them in front of an auto at Crotona avenue and Crotona Park South. Scores of other accidents were reported to police.

Signs were blown down and plate glass windows shattered by the force of the gale. Street traffic as well as train traffic on practically all lines into the city was delayed, and tube and subway lines were congested by the rush of passengers who abandoned the surface lines.

The gale reached its height at Atlantic City where 80 miles an hour velocity was reported.

For the first time in years the city of Norfolk was absolutely cut off from the outside communication by the storm.

Telegraph and telephone lines were down, and even the navy department was unable to communicate with Norfolk via wireless owing to weather conditions and broken materials in the stations.

All of Western Maryland was cut off. Telephone companies reported no service to western Maryland points before tomorrow, and telegraph companies reported all wires down.

Centering over eastern Maryland at noon the storm moved slowly northward.

The outlook is for continued snow and rain tonight and Wednesday in New England, New York and Pennsylvania. Otherwise the weather will be fair in states east of the Mississippi river.

Auto Ass'n's Are Reunited

Peter G. Ten Eyck Elected President of New York State Automobile Association, Representing 80,000 Motorists—Hogart a Vice-President.

Representatives of 60,000 New York state motorists, Monday night attended a dinner in the Ten Eyck at Albany to celebrate the consolidation of the two state motor organizations which grew out of a split in policy ten years ago, the New York State Automobile Association and the New York State Motor Federation.

Following a meeting in the afternoon at which officers were elected and policies adopted, the delegates of one hundred and forty-two clubs of the state association and the eighteen branches of the federation met at dinner for addresses by the newly elected officers, Ernest N. Smith, general manager of the American Automobile Association and Edward A. Morrice, secretary of the Empire State Automobile Merchants' Association.

Peter G. Ten Eyck was elected president of the new organization, which is to be called the New York State Automobile Association. The first vice-president is Oscar J. Brown, of Syracuse, formerly president of the federation. Other officers are second vice-president, Elva H. Hogart, Kingston; third vice-president, Wendell W. Chase, New York city; fourth vice-president, Frederick Sessions, Utica; secretary, Herbert W. Baker, Albany, and treasurer, Fay C. Parsons, Cortland. Committee chairman are: Good roads, A. H. Maloney, Camden; road service, Harry K. Maples, New York; and membership, Dai H. Lewis, Buffalo. Melvin T. Bender of Albany is general counsel.

Mr. Ten Eyck presided at the dinner, first introducing State Senator Peter J. McGarry, called by the president the "fairy godmother" of the united organizations. Senator McGarry arbitrated the differences of the two motor associations as they were submitted to him recently by a joint committee of five representatives from each association.

At the business meeting in the afternoon a resolution was adopted unanimously approving the proposed amendment to the motor vehicle law. It is also understood that the association will support the bill increasing the state police force. Mr. Brown said he believes two full troops should be added for service on the so-called bootleg trail and the much traveled tourist routes of the central and eastern sections of the state.

Asks Payment For Paint Job

Robert McKittrick's Action Against Alex Campbell for Contract on North Manor Avenue House Begun.

An action for breach of contract brought by Robert McKittrick against Alex Campbell was taken up in supreme court Monday afternoon and continued at the opening of court this morning. McKittrick brings the action to recover for painting which was done under a contract in a new residence property of Mr. Campbell on North Manor avenue, this city.

The contract for interior and exterior painting and finishing was given by Mr. McKittrick. The job was completed but Mr. Campbell contends that the work was not satisfactory in many respects. Mr. McKittrick maintains that the work as done was not as called for in the contract in all respects as Mr. and Mrs. Campbell changed the finish from time to time as the work progressed. After one bedroom had been finished in gloss varnish the plans were changed and the rest of the house was finished in flat finish. The room first done was also changed to flat finish. Floor finishes were also changed by their direction, he claims, from varnish to shellac.

The exterior work is also criticized by the defendant, who claims that after a time the knots showed through on certain pillars and also that the blinds were not properly painted. Plaintiff contends that the job was done in a proper manner as set forth in the contract and that the job was a good job under the specifications of the contract and as changed by the owners and the architect.

John W. Eckert appears for plaintiff and H. H. Flemming for defendant.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE CIRCUS PARADE

"The parade is coming, the parade is coming!" shouted everyone, and in the distance the sound of the band was heard.

And everyone stood along the sidewalks or looked down from windows, or ran in the direction from which the music came so they could march along the streets near the parade. The music kept getting louder and louder. It was coming nearer and nearer. There were the elephants. Oh, how beautiful they were!

They were so big and they looked out of their small eyes as though to say:

"Bring peanuts when you come to see us. We've got good appetites. And why shouldn't we have when you look at how enormous we are!"

"We've seen people—not big as we are—eat a great, great meal, and small people, too!" Well, just think then about us and our size and our—appetites!"

Then came the camels and ladies rode upon the camels. The camels did not look to the right, nor to the left, except when some one rode by on a motorcycle the camels moved their bodies sideways as though to say:

"Where we came from they didn't have queer, noisy things like that!"

"We wouldn't like anything of the sort. Fancy us lowering our dignity by riding on such a thing."

"That's all right for people, but not for camels."

The sun shone down upon the parade and every costume seemed to dazzle and sparkle in the bright light.

Clowns rode upon some of the high wagons and looked down and made funny remarks as they went by.

And one of them winked at a little boy named George and said:

"My name is George; what is yours?"

"Min. Is George, too?" the boy shouted back.

And the clown made a great bow and the people saw all this, and many of the circus people saw it, too, which made it very exciting and nice.

Wasn't that a pleasant thing to have happen?"

The ponies were so cunning and some very little people rode upon them.

There were several enormous lions who rode in cages and who looked out at the people as though to say:

"Admire us if you like. We don't mind, but neither will it thrill us."

"With our great lion dignity we will not make a fuss so as to gain your praise."

Such a parade as it was! And it spoke well for the circus to be held that afternoon.

Oh, yes, in the afternoon there would be the circus and in the evening, too.

And all those who watched the parade said to each other:

"Are you going to the circus?"

"Of course! Are you?"

"Of course!"

Teachers Are Happy Now

Frank and Willie Allen, twins, of Windsor, England, looked alike, dressed alike and talked alike. From the day they started to school they had their masters guessing. To make matters worse, their marks always were the same. If Frank failed, Willie failed. But now their teachers are sighing with relief. Willie has outstripped Frank in spelling and has been promoted to a higher form. And Frank has got the edge on Willie in athletics. So now it's not half so difficult to tell them apart.

Starfish

If a starfish is turned over upon its upper surface it rights itself by bending two arms backward until they are beneath the disk and then lifting until it falls on its lower surface, says Nature Magazine. If the nerve-ring, which encircles the mouth, is severed, the animal cannot right itself.

The Reason?

"A fool," said the professor to the student who asked a catch question, "can ask things a wise man can't answer."

"Is that the reason?" asked a student in the back row, "why I flunked last term, in this subject?"

THE KITCHEN CABINET

"To grow and keep in person as attractive as possible should be not only everyone's pleasure but should be also everyone's duty."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

An alarm clock is a fine thing to set in the kitchen when baking cake, pudding, bread or in fact any kind of food. One is so apt to forget how long the bread has been baking. Set it at the time one is to start getting dinner, too.

A cheap little slate with a crayon or pencil hung on the kitchen wall will help in doing the ordering. When any staple is getting low a note to that effect will call it to mind. A good reminder for work to do or engagements that might be neglected is thus handy.

If the hands are rubbed with a mixture of salt and cornmeal after peeling onions or handling fish, then washed in cold water the odor will be removed.

To remove obstinate mason jar covers on canned fruit dip them in boiling water for a minute or two, then unscrew easily.

Melt butter and heat milk when adding to mashed potato—then they will heat up light and fluffy.

Cornmeal mush will not become lumpy when cooking if the water is boiling and the cornmeal is mixed with a little cold water to pour into the boiling water. Stir until well-mixed and cook until thoroughly done. Add a tablespoonful of butter to the hot mush—it improves the flavor and it will fry better.

Do not put the dressing on salads that contain lettuce until ready to serve as it loses its crispness.

When baking potatoes clip the ends, wash well, then rub with any sweet fat. The skin will be thin and edible when baked. Roll the potato and crack to let the steam escape—this will make a meaty potato.

Newspapers laid around the stove when frying cakes or broiling steaks will save many a spot on the floor. The papers may be gathered up and burned and much work be saved.

When cooking steak add the seasoning after the steak has been well seared over on both sides. Salt draws out the juices of the meat if added before it is cooked.

Potato peelings put into the furnace or kitchen stove will keep the flues clean.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 11, 1924

Those American fiction writers who have outdone the freedom of the French novel without achieving its pre-eminent form and style are not receiving the expected praise of French critics. One of these writing in L'Europe Nouvelle, deploras the "dismal liberalism" of American imitators, and referring to Sherwood Anderson's "coarse" book, "Many Marriages," says that "the combination of Puritanism with the cult of pleasure gives a somberly grimacing something at once painful and artificial."

JAY WALKERS AND JAZZ DRIVERS.

Notwithstanding the "army" of jay walkers, it might be well to remember that there is no small number of jazz drivers, judging from the automobile accidents that are reported and not only the number but the character of the smash-ups. When an automobile is driven into the front window of a store, the driver miscalculating the distance, it would not be too much to ask that the legislature adopt some plan to take the jazz out of the drivers as well as the jay out of the walkers. It appears as if some automobile drivers were one hundred per cent satisfied with themselves and expected pedestrians to take proper cognizance of those in the car.

There is no doubt that some so-called jay walkers are to blame for injuries, but the jay walkers are not responsible for the destruction caused by drivers who are fined for operating while under the influence of liquor. Police records through the state prove that all accidents are not to be placed at the feet of jay walkers. It is also fact that some non-intoxicated drivers forget they do not own the earth.

There is a measure of carelessness of people who try to pass in front of automobiles, but, even so, there is no law that we know of that allows the automobile driver to deliberately run over them and not pay some penalty. It would seem as if some drivers thought they had all the rights of the road, at intersections as well as everywhere else, and they are answerable for a large share of accidents charged to the jay walkers.

Fortunately some automobile legislation is under way to protect jay walkers, who seemingly can not protect themselves, and to control the number of jazz drivers. If the jazz drivers are put under additional restrictions it will be a step in the right direction and as helpful as poking fun at the jay walkers, who, in a literary contest, might not get the worst end of every comparison with the jazz drivers.

WHERE SAFETY BEGINS.

The insincerity of the attempt to re-establish in New York state the repudiated Mullan-Gage law through a bill prepared by a committee headed by the Erie county district attorney who at the same time announces his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor is shown nowhere more clearly than in the committee's announcement regarding the double jeopardy feature of conviction for violating prohibition laws. The committee calls the double jeopardy which was possible under the Mullan-Gage law a "theoretical" objection to the old law. So far as the state law permits, says the committee, this "theoretical" objection has been eliminated in the new bill by providing in effect that conviction or acquittal of a defendant in a United States court shall be a bar to prosecution in the state courts on the same charge.

But the sponsor of the new state prohibition bill is unable to get away from the fact that even such a provision of law as they suggest would not prevent the United States officials from prosecuting under the Volstead law any persons who had been convicted under the state law, so that until the Volstead law is amended in that respect it is falsehood to say that the proposed law will prevent double jeopardy. Not until both the Volstead law and any law passed by the state of New York agree on the subject can double jeopardy be prevented. It is a fact that men have been prosecuted for the same offense both under the Volstead law and the late Mullan-Gage law, and the United States Supreme court held that the same offense could be prosecuted under both laws, the Fifth Amendment offering no protection against this form of oppression. Not until the Volstead law is amended so as to eliminate the double jeopardy danger is a committee of officials justified in telling citizens they are safe. First amend the Volstead law.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

THE OUNCE OF PREVENTION.

A physician of Long Island states that he has been able to increase the white corpuscles in the blood by from fifty to one hundred per cent by injecting a mercury solution into the body.

The white corpuscles are the little bodies in the blood that give battle to any harmful substance entering the body.

This would mean a tremendous onward step in our battle for health, both as a wonderful support during illness, and a dependable ally for the prevention of illness.

During a severe illness of any kind the first thing the physician is anxious about after the heart, is the number of white corpuscles in the blood. An increase shows that the body is trying to put up a fight. A tremendous increase shows how strong the invader is.

During the war we had in our hospital a young physician taken down suddenly with pneumonia. He was very sick with high temperature, rapid breathing and great prostration.

The consulting physician was doubtful of the result right from the beginning.

Why? Because there was no increase in the number of white corpuscles in the blood.

What did this mean? That this young physician's body did not put up any fight for him. It just didn't have the ability to create more white corpuscles. In other words, no defence was put up against the pneumonia, and he died in four or five days.

You can readily see that a body with no more fighting ability than this, would always have a hard time, no matter what form of illness attacked it.

A chap with that type of body is usually pale and listless, and is often accused of being actually lazy.

While it is not like ordinary anaemia, which is a lessening of the richness of the food contents in the red corpuscles of the blood, nevertheless it is even more serious because it shows usually an inherited low vitality.

However, just as in anaemia, the remedy is in rich food, light exercise, fresh air and sunshine.

Where one has had an illness and the attending physician tells you that your convalescence was a bit slow due to the small number of white corpuscles in your blood, take that illness as a blessing in disguise. Because you can thus get busy with yourself.

If an inside worker, change your job if possible. If not, then make up your mind to get as much of the outdoors as you can, with light exercise in the form of walking.

ASKS FARMERS TO HELP FIGHT GIPSY MOTHS.

Albany, March 10.—Conservation Commissioner Alexander Macdonald has sent to Farm Bureau agents in the Hudson valley counties a letter calling their attention to the seriousness of the gipsy moth invasion as shown through the work done by the conservation commission's gipsy moth field forces, and requested their cooperation in an intensive campaign to be carried on by farmers, orchardists and land owners in conjunction with the conservation commission's field forces to prevent the spread of this most destructive forest, orchard and shade tree pest in this state. In his letter he says:

"I am particularly anxious to call to the attention of the Hudson valley property owners the immediate danger of the gipsy moth becoming established in eastern New York. Progressive farmers and orchardists are aware of the cost of insect damage and control work. The cooperation they are now extending in the care and protection of their trees is protection to their own property against invasion by the gipsy moth. Their personal interests are, however, involved through the possibility of the gipsy moth becoming established in the numerous farms and orchards throughout the Hudson valley where insect control work is not thought of. The latter are the ones we are particularly desirous of getting interested."

"Everyone who can be induced to remove a worthless tree or increase the amount of spraying work will help increase the efficiency of the gipsy moth barrier zone."

The American Legion

(Copy for this Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service)

PLAN IS TO REACH ALL ILLITERATES

The American Legion was the chief factor in broadening the scheme for adult education at the recent conference, aimed at elimination of illiteracy, held in Washington, declared Dr. Homer Seerley, president of the Iowa State Teachers' college, a delegate to the conference.

Chief among these recommendations were those for provision of more education than now provided, particularly in regard to matters of citizenship, which will be brought about by an investigation as to competency of every native-born citizen as fully as the foreign-born is examined, Doctor Seerley said.

Another feature of the conference was the report of "Group C," that section of the work in which the American Legion was most vitally interested.

Garland W. Powell, national director of the Americanism commission of the Legion, clearly enunciated the aims of the conference at its inception when he said, as chairman of that group:

"We believe that the chief aim of this conference is to provide that every man and woman in the United States who cannot already do so be taught to speak, read and write the English language. We further believe that the first elements of citizenship should be a part of such instruction."

On this was the principal work of the conference founded. An attempt had been made by elements of the conference to make combating of illiteracy apply only to native-born Americans, but the Legion and other agencies, co-operating in Group C, declared against this, aiming to bring those of foreign birth into the scope of the campaign.

The recommendation of the group in which the Legion participated was that the United States commissioner of education be requested to appoint a committee of at least nine persons, with professional experience in this field, three of whom are to be members of Group C of the illiteracy conference, for the purpose of reviewing the materials submitted by Group C of this conference and forwarding the results of their work to those engaged in illiteracy work in the United States. It was further recommended that the commissioner secure representatives of the entire country on this committee.

The report of the subcommittee of this group on textbooks and materials urged use of certain principles in selection of textbooks for instruction. These principles include texts that conform to the ability of adult students; that do not violate psychological principles of suggestion; that conform to accepted methods of teaching; such text should contain fundamental items of information on health, food, hygiene and sanitation; with suggested texts for specific groups of native-born illiterates, foreign born illiterates and intermediate and advanced texts for all groups.

Consolidation of rural schools is growing in favor, according to the reports to the conference. One-room schools are disappearing, data showing that 1,828 consolidations were effected in the school years of 1921-1922, with 14 states not reporting. At least four of these states are known to be making considerable progress in the work of eliminating single small schools. In some cases these are being improved, not by removal to a distant central location, but by natural growth in two and three-room schools. There were 1,890 consolidated schools in the United States in 1920. There are now approximately 15,000 of such schools, and a decrease of 8,500 one-room schools is noted in the three year period.

All this has had a salutary effect on the salaries of school teachers, resulting, in turn, in higher mentality for the teaching profession. Beginning of illiteracy is traceable, in many instances, to rural schools where incompetent teachers and insufficient supervision have prevailed.

The conference on illiteracy, called by the Legion, was the first national attempt to settle on some means for eradication of inability to read and write the English language, much of which is to be found among illiterate immigrants, and native-born negroes and whites in certain sections of the country. The Legion's part in calling of the conference was determined by the national program of education, reinforced by every succeeding national convention since the first meeting in Minneapolis.

Play Kiddie-Kar Polo

The newest sport in American Legion circles is kiddie-kar polo. Just now in cities of the Northwest star-wart Legionnaires are to be seen astride of their "steeds" dashing madly about the clubrooms chasing an elusive polo ball in an earnest endeavor to "knock its block off." An interpost "league" has been formed and the sport is proving a most popular indoor diversion. In one post, which has a member an inch or two short of seven feet, the game is said to be especially interesting and speedy.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 11.—Rib Falk has taken unkindly to the decision to give him a fling at pitching instead of outfielding. He says he won't pitch. Johnny Evers has been given the decision as to availability of White Sox recruits.

Urges Conferences

JOHN H. WALKER, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, believes that an understanding between the American Legion and organized labor will accomplish great things. He said:

"There should be conferences from time to time between organizations of labor and the American Legion in every city in which there are Legion posts established, for the purpose of removing any misunderstandings that might arise. No real American can deny the right of labor to organize for the betterment and protection of its members."

"That is exactly why the American Legion was organized—for the returned service men—that, and for the continued service to their country in peace as well as war."

MAKES VOCATIONAL TRAINING BIG CARD

If the vocational training department of the veterans' bureau advertised its activities in the magazines as do various correspondence schools, you would probably see the subject of the accompanying picture pointing a finger at you and inquiring if you, too, wanted to make a thousand dollars and royalties.

Here's the story: Richard G. Quehl of Peterson post, American Legion, Minneapolis, Minn., is a veteran whom the Germans picked on. In one year of service ten months were spent in France, and on two separate occasions Quehl was "at home" for the reception of steel-jacketed calling cards.

As a part of his vocational training he was farmed out to a Minneapolis maker of flour and cereal milling machinery, as a salesman. His employer told him to go into the shop and observe things, so that he would know the business from the ground up. Being a spectator didn't appeal to Quehl. He put on a pair of overalls and went to work at the bench.

His genius immediately showed itself and in no time at all he demonstrated some practical improvements in machinery design. His latest idea is an improvement on a disk separator for keeping the chaff from the wheat. He sold the idea for $1,000 and royalties.

Now don't try to spoil this story by pointing out that Quehl was trained as a salesman. He is a versatile comrade. He also made good as a salesman and compiled the best catalogue that his company ever armed its sales force with.

Veteran of World War Poses as Real German

For once, John Thomas, a veteran of the World war, was glad that he could pose as a German, even though he had fought them on French soil in 1917 and 1918.

For Thomas escaped from Huertista rebels in Mexico by posing as a German, after the rebels learned that the United States had begun to supply the federalists with guns and munitions. Even then, he was tortured with hot irons, and his clothing taken from him, and escaped only through aid of friendly freight train conductors, who helped him make his way across the border.

Thomas was a miner employed by a British syndicate on the Jalisco-Guadalupe front, and the mine was attacked and wrecked by the Huertistas. He was taken prisoner with a group of federal soldiers and was accused of being a "gringo." He saw another American killed by the rebels.

"Americans are about as popular as rattlesnakes with the rebels just now," said Thomas to a group of American Legion members in El Paso, who provided him shelter and funds. "Since the United States began to send munitions to Obregon, they call it interference in their family scraps."

The rebels took 367 pesos—all the money he had—and left him almost naked, but he was freed when he claimed to be German. Then the localistic troops caught him and repeated this treatment.

To Aid Unemployed

In order to provide employment for ex-service men in and around Mobile, Ala., members of the American Legion in that city have arranged with local newspapers to carry advertising in the "Situations Wanted" column for local veterans without charge. A membership card in the American Legion or an honorable discharge is the only requirement.

ONE CENT A WORD ADVS. BRING RESULTS

A Girl at My Age

Because of a French-type clay

By Edna Wallace Hopper

For 40 years I have been a famous beauty. I am a youthful beauty still in the stage I play young girls in, and I look like a girl of 19.

Nearly years ago French experts taught me the use of clay. That clay brought my beauty—made me the age of New York.

Then clays were crude and muddy, many clays are still. Since then, French experts have perfected clay. They have made it white and clean and dainty. They have added factors which bring manifold effects.

I now use that perfected clay, and all my White Youth Clay. I am an example of what that new-type clay does for women.

You must use clay

No girl or woman who cares for her beauty can now omit her clay. No one can look her best without it. No woman can keep her youth. The use of clay, with their rosy, clear complexion, stand out in every crowd.

Clay purges the skin of all that is ugly—the causes of sallowness, blackheads and blemishes. It brings blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is that rosy afterglow which so amazes and delights.

Clay makes plain girls beauties. And older women, in 30 minutes, seem to drop ten years.

Clay firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. Look at me—a miracle of old-age youth. That could never have come without clay.

The best is yours

Now I bring you this new-type clay which France perfected for me. If you are a clay user, the multiplied results will amaze you. If you don't use clay, the quick results will astound you.

You owe to yourself a test

Edna Wallace Hopper's White Youth Clay is supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. Price 50c and $1 per tube. Also my Youth Cream which should follow the clay. Also my Facial Youth—my famous liquid cleanser. Also my Hair Youth, which brings out the natural hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

I am doing this to serve you—to bring you greater beauty longer youth. Go learn how much they mean to you, starting with my Youth Clay. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago

New Jersey Turning Blue

Old Law Dug Up and to Be Enforced. Will Allow Citizens to Go to Church and Read Newspapers on Sunday—That's About All.

By Telegram to The Freeman
Jersey City, N. J., March 11.—Twentieth century New Jersey today faced the threat of a return to all but the stocks and pillory of 1798.

Edward H. Ransom, Jr., president of the Sunday League of New Jersey, announced he would appear before the city commission this afternoon and demand that:

1. All automobile traffic be suspended on Sunday.
2. The playing of phonographs, radio receiving and broadcasting and the holding of parties be declared illegal.

Ransom said he would act under the statute passed in 1793 and never repealed.

The blue movement, meanwhile, was creating widespread discussion. "It is my opinion that this move is but an effort to bring public disfavor on the legitimate efforts of sincere clergymen to enforce that portion of the law relating to the operation of theaters on Sunday," the Rev. James Parker, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church, and a leader in the Sunday closing fight, declared.

Ransom was largely responsible for the order calling upon police to get evidence against persons and business houses who violated the Sunday laws.

Twenty thousand violations were found in the county. Names of these were given to the grand jury today. Wholesale indictments are expected.

Many persons were openly hostile to the "blue law crusade." Others laughed.

But Police Chief Richard B. Battersby, of Jersey City, declared the affair was no joke.

"Wait until next Sunday and see," he said, explaining that if Ransom's plea to the grand jury was effective police would report every motorist, radio and phonograph user, every boy or girl playing at games and all persons attending parties.

The Rev. Frank S. Ritter, president of the society of New Jersey for the prevention of crime and the promotion of morals, said:

"Although we are not opposed to legitimate business being run on Sunday—street cars, drug stores and such, we feel that the police activity directed against grocers, clothing stores and such will have a good effect. Such places need not run."

The Rev. Mons. John A. Sheppard of the Catholic Church said he was not taking the slightest interest in either side.

"I didn't know we had a blue law drive," he said.

Ransom said that if his motion to the city commission was carried only three things would be legal next Sunday. These, he said are:

1. For people to either walk to church or go there by carriage, but not by automobile.
2. Stay at home and read the newspapers—newspapers can be printed and vended under the blue law.
3. Get out of the state Saturday night and return Monday.

"If we're going to have blue laws," Ransom declared "let's have them all the way—just the way they are written on the statute books."

Landmark To Be Razed.

Charles Van Buskirk has sold the frame building on Partition street, Saugerties, recently vacated by the Rovenkos, to Officer T. J. Kelly of Saugerties, who will raze it. This building was built over fifty years ago and was one of the landmarks of Saugerties. As soon as the building is removed the work of constructing a three story brick building will be begun. The building will be connected with the present Van Buskirk block and confirm to its line.

HOW ESKIMOS CATCH EELS TO FEED DOGS

Dip Nets Used Through Holes Cut in Ice.

Saint Michael, Alaska.—Early every winter vast numbers of eels come down the Yukon river toward the sea, and the methods used by Eskimos to catch them for dog feed is novel.

The lower Yukon freezes early in December and when the ice is about six inches thick the Eskimos watch for the arrival of eels.

Eskimo villages are scattered along the lower river up to Anvik, the dividing line between the Yukon Indians and Eskimos. Anvik is 350 miles from the mouth. The villages have from six to twenty families, each with five or more children.

The natives prepare dip nets 18 inches in diameter, of seal or walrus hide, the size of a leather shoe string, and made with one-quarter-inch mesh, fastened to a willow hoop and four-foot pole.

When the ice is strong enough the Eskimos who own dogs find the river eddies where eels have regular lanes of travel year after year.

Holes Cut in Ice.

Each dog owner cuts a hole two feet square in the ice, then some distance further along another one, and so on until five or six are made, all in a line up and down the river, crosswise to the current. Over the holes are placed grass mats piled with snow to prevent freezing. A stick is frozen upright near each hole as a guide and warning. Near each hole heaps of dry woods are piled.

Eels do not run in small numbers first, they increase to the high peak. They come in a wriggling, writhing mass of snake-like forms. They pass a given point in from seven to twenty minutes, a few stragglers follow for half an hour. They are 18 inches long, dark brown, with a leather-like skin on back and belly. Each has seven small round holes the size of a pinhead on both sides of the skull and a mouth like a sucker. Their digestive organs are in the head. The backbone is a hairlike crystal running the entire length of the body. They are all fat, not a trace of lean meat to be found on one of them.

When the ice is six inches thick the natives are ready for the greatest event of the year.

The tribes have an unusual system of notifying each other when the eels have arrived. Four young men are sent to watch at a water hole three or four miles beyond their village, day and night, until eels are sighted. Sleep is impossible, for if they should miss the eel run the natives would be minus dog feed for the long winter.

The river water comes up through the ice holes to within two or three inches of the top and as the wriggling masses of eels come down stream they push water ahead of them so that each hole overflows. This is the sign to the watchers of the arrival of the anticipated hosts.

Much of Work at Night.

Eels run so close to the shore that it is generally night work harvesting them. It is the queerest of northern sights to observe 30 to 50 furchad Eskimos and many dogs on the snow-covered ice, the rows of small wood fires burning brightly at the water holes.

As the water begins to rise in the hole, an Eskimo plunges his dip net in. At once it is filled with writhing eels; he pulls it up, dumps the contents upon the ice, then another plunge, another net full.

The last hole cleaned, the Eskimos gather to inspect their catch. Each family has from five to seven or eight piles of eels already frozen stiff, the sum total caught numbering well up in the hundreds.

The piles are left on the ice during a great part of the winter, except when a sled load is wanted for dog feed.

Eels are cooked with dried dogfish and the native sledge dog receives one full meal per day, which is served at night.

The eels are too fat even for the oil-loving Eskimos, but the grease is used for cooking and lamps.

Elephants Poor Sailors; Sea Voyage Sickens 'Em

Hamburg.—"Old Rose," an elephant ninety years of age, suffered most from sea sickness of all the 500 trained animals which sailed from Hamburg for Montevideo as part of a circus now on tour in South America.

There were nine other elephants beside "Old Rose," who is queen of the herd, and all bore up very well indeed until the leader herself became ill and kept the veterinarians and trainers up every night for a good part of the three-week ocean trip. The elephants at first were kept up on deck, but sight of the waves and the constant rolling and pitching of the vessel agitated them and resulted in so much belching that they were soon moved below decks.

Writing home of their experiences, the animal trainers say the voyage was a nightmare which lasted several weeks. The snakes were the only quiet things aboard the ship during the stormy weather, they said.

THE GRIST FROM THE MILL OF FASHION

(By Eleanor Gunn)

The following memos indicate impressions gleaned in early showings and are given as brief guides to busy women.

Both in cloths and silks, clever simulations of tailored suits continue to mark dress collections. Removable pique vestees are shown in dresses of this type, and all the accoutrements of the tailored mode are brought into play.

The latest arrival in tub silk frocks is the "shirt-tail" model, with the "shirt-tail" forming a three quarter apron effect in front. Another silk skirting dress distinctly different in effect is finished with a gathered, bunched, which is very smartly edged in black.

Wool lace developed in sports frocks is another addition. of the week in dresses and is shown in pastel shades as well as white. Jersey de sole proves a novel material and is a clever imitation of chalk heading.

The tunic effect continues to be a dominant factor and repeated instances of the tunic with belts, are noted. This style is also used in formal gowns, and lingerie frocks are shown in tunic arrangement over black satin.

Green continues to be one of the most favored colors in spring dresses. Louisette blue and Ashes of Roses are also in the running. Black and white cannot be overlooked in ultra smart models, and the tortoise shades also register.

The extremely short sleeve is prominent in practically every collection, and frequently a sleeve effect is formed by a yoke that crops over the shoulders. Some houses even introduce short sleeves in cloths.

The sleeveless dress with three-quarter overblouses, in smock appearance completing it for street wear, is accorded various interpretations. It is at once practical and gives a smart casual appearance.

The costume idea in dresses as a style factor includes a one-piece dress and a graceful three-quarter length coat.

Lace for evening wear is much in favor, and one very exclusive dress establishment is making a specialty of pastel shades of gros de Londres with the daintiest of silver and gold ornamentation. Irregular hemlines in transparent fabrics mark many formal gowns.

The use of georgette in style for street wear marks the summer import collection.

Both tailored and decorative types are offered and in each instance long sleeves are introduced in these models, which are all handmade.

Feb. Factory Wages Higher

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, March 11.—Factory employment made a good recovery in February from the dullness of January. The advance amounted to about one per cent and brings the level back to that of December. There has been no evidence thus far, however, of a repetition of the upward swing of a year ago. This statement was issued today by Industrial Commissioner Bernard L. Shientag of the State Department of Labor.

The important group of metal industries showed practically no net change this month and conditions within the group are very much like those reported a month ago. The shops making and repairing railway rolling stock made another reduction of forces which reflects a further decline in the production of new equipment. Some of the steel mills, however, which produce roadbed equipment for the railroads were active. Production of agricultural implements and supplies appears to be dull. The forward movement in the metals came in the manufacture of automobiles and parts and the activity in these plants had a favorable effect upon the sheet metal works. A gain was recorded in the household utensil factories and the heating apparatus plants. There were more workers in the abrasive mills than there were a month ago.

Employment in the textiles showed an important improvement over January, but is considerably lower than a year ago. The knitting mills made a gain which was general and the carpet factories added workers to forces which were already large. There were more people employed in making woollens for men's and women's dress goods but this movement is seasonal and employment in these plants is still low. Cotton goods establishments suffered a considerable loss since last month and while an increase was reported in the cotton finishing plants it was by no means general.

MARCH DAIRY RATION IS HERE SUGGESTED

In suggesting a good dairy ration for March, Dr. E. S. Savage of the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, says that prices declined somewhat during February, but as March began they had stiffened somewhat.

"However, as a general rule," he says, "the cheapest feeds are the corn feeds, the wheat feeds, gluten feed and oil meal. Therefore, I doubt if we can better the following mixture: Three hundred pounds wheat bran, 200 pounds corn meal or hominy, 300 pounds gluten feed, 200 pounds oil meal."

CANALS MAY OPEN 15 DAYS EARLIER THIS YEAR

Truth Stranger Than Fiction

Dr. F. E. Allison of Washington, D. C., has undertaken one of the biggest chemical jobs in the universe. He is one of the scientists at the Fixed Nitrogen Laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture engaged in the task of taking nitrogen out of the air and making it into fertilizers and explosives. While his associates work with electricity and by other methods, Dr. Allison is going to school every day to bacteria.

It has been known that many bacteria fix nitrogen in the soil. They usually live on the roots of clover, peas and similar plants. Agricultural scientists have long encouraged the growth of these bacteria in the soil but Dr. Allison has taken them into the laboratory and is learning the method by which a little creature so small that it can hardly be seen with a microscope does the same thing that the great plant at Muscle Shoals was designed to do.

When he completes his study, it is expected that the bacterial method will be applied to large scale manufacture of atmospheric nitrogen. The poor little bacteria will not be made to do the work, but their methods will be applied to the work in great plants.

Dr. Allison keeps many kinds of bacteria in flasks and studies them every day, the year round. At this time of the year they live mostly on carrot extract.

AMERICAN WOMAN TURNS ON PRINCE.

Mrs. Jean Nash & Prince Sabit Bey.

Above are pictured Mrs. Jean Nash, daughter of an American railway man, and Prince Sabit Bey, an Egyptian, with whom she was accused in Paris of pawning a $10,000 diamond and emerald brooch which had not been paid for. Mrs. Nash admitted she was with the Prince when he parted with the brooch to Danish Consul Van De Zee, but that she remained in an automobile during the conversation between the two men. She asserted she would charge the Prince with passing worthless checks unless he appeared to absolve her. Mrs. Nash recently was reported engaged to Baron Herbert Lederman Warburg, of Berlin, but announcement was made later that the engagement had been broken off.

Remarkable Cavern

The Carlsbad cavern, in the foothills of the Guadalupe mountains in the southern part of New Mexico, has recently been found to contain formations of such startling significance that in October President Coolidge set the cavern aside as the Carlsbad national monument. The natural wonders of the cave are said to be of the first magnitude. Parts of the cavern have been known for years, but it is only since the recent exploration that the untold wealth of natural growth was brought to light.

Winsome Knitted Suit for Early Spring Wear

This charming knitted suit of black and white mixture was designed for early spring wear. It is suitable for almost any daylight occasion.

Debutante Needs Many Clothes for Wardrobe

The dressing of the debutante depends naturally on how much is to be spent on her clothes, and on the type of parties she expects to attend. Some women, says a fashion writer in the Kansas City Star, avoid large teas and luncheons as much as possible; many enjoy walking instead of riding to their destination whenever time permits. For these the extreme afternoon dress is impracticable and an unnecessary extravagance.

The formal tea is not as much given as it used to be, and in addition it is not considered necessary to be as formal as in days gone by. For that matter, even a smart tailored suit is entirely permissible at a formal tea. The hostess and those in the receiving line are naturally not included in this. If a tea is to be given for the debutante she should, of course, wear a dress light in color as well as texture. However, this type of dress is extravagant, as she will find very little use for it.

The best wardrobe for the average debutante includes two tailored suits—one severe, and the other elaborate (if it is not possible to afford two, choose the plainer); one dress of crepe or tulle (or some similar material), and one of velvet; one fur-trimmed coat or fur coat or both; and as many evening dresses as one's purse can afford. The latter receive by far the most strenuous wear. Dancing is very hard on dresses.

If one cannot afford many evening dresses it is better to avoid the very light colors. One tries of them too quickly, and in addition they are more apt to be remembered and tried of by others. Black velvet is always lovely and permits of extremely simple cutting and treatment.

Flamingo Red Wool Is Used for Dainty Frock

One of the most fetching little suits is in flamingo red wool fabric, the skirt laid in narrow kilts, the slipover coat blouse being trimmed with strips of white kid. This kid trimming is a novelty, and is seen often on both wool and crepe dresses. A border in a scalloped pattern cut out of white kid trims a one-piece frock of black flat crepe, outlining the front horizontally on each side and running around the bottom of the skirt. The kid border is applied also on the sleeves, which are cut straight, three-quarter length, and on the shallow neck.

On another cation crepe dress of pea green, white kid is sewn in a cluster of small oval motifs, giving the appearance of large bunches of grapes, large splashes of white on the green. It is a chic little gown. A number of lovely models in green are shown, and many in scarlet, especially in the worsteds. Small sports hats of felt or taffeta are correct with this type of dress.

Dainty Bandeaux Hold Favor for Headdress

Bandeaux hold their vogue and grow more and more fantastic, and the stock of the smart shops is constantly replenished with novelties. One is the "Rajah," which is more than the ordinary bandeau, being in reality a turban of folds of crepe or gauze in two colors, intertwined in the manner of an East Indian headdress. The only difference between this and the turban hats is the absence of a crown. Wreaths and half-wreaths made of leaves in silver gauze ribbon, and small metal flowers sewn singly on a slender band, all very delicate and dainty, are among the newest bandeaux.

New in form—a complete soap—with greater cleansing power than bar soap . . Yet immediately soluble!

This new kind of laundry soap dissolves instantly!

Makes the water in your tubs "soap-sudsy" all through—
Soaks dirt out—saves you the hard work of rubbing

A NEW SOAP that spares you the hardest work of washday!

That soaks dirt out in its rich soap-suds!

You no longer have to rub soap on your clothes to get them soapy and you don't have to rub the soapy clothes to get them clean.

CLEANSING RINSO SUDS gently dissolve the dirt from even the inmost fibers of the clothes you put to soak.

Only the specially dirty places like cuff-edges, neckbands, seats of rompers, need a little dry Rinso sprinkled on them and a light rubbing between your fingers. Then you rinse it all thoroughly and the loosened dirt is carried away.

Because Rinso dissolves completely you cannot possibly have any bits of soap left sticking to garments and turning them yellow under the iron, as so often happens with bar soap.

YOU GET a good clear rinse that absolutely floats off all the soapy solution—your clothes are cleaner than ever and with so much less labor!

The only soap you need for the Monday wash is—just Rinso. You soak with it, boil with it, use it in your washing machine. You don't have to bother with bar soap or washing powders any more.

Sixteen leading washing machine makers say:
"Use Rinso in your machine"

The largest soap-makers in the world—the makers of Lux—make Rinso. Try Rinso today—use enough to get big lasting suds after the clothes have been put in, and see for yourself how easily this new kind of laundry soap gets your clothes snowy white.

Consistory To Be Public

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Rome, March 11.—The consistory which Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes of New York and Archbishop George W. Mundelein of Chicago will be public instead of secret and will be held in St. Peter's Cathedral instead of the Vatican. It was announced today. This is the first time a public consistory was ever held in St. Peter's.

Pope Pius XI's decision to hold the consistory in the cathedral was due to the fact that workmen who are repairing the floor of the Vatican Hall are using the Royal Hall where consistories were held in the past.

The pontiff has suspended audiences and is devoting all his time to the allocation which will be issued when the consistory is held.

Assembly to Kill Smith Bills

Will Act Unfavorably This Week On Direct Primary And Four Year Terms For Governor—Senate To Pass Some Smith Measures.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, March 11.—The Republican assembly this week is expected to act on several important legislative recommendations made by Governor Smith and which were passed by the Democratic senate nearly a month ago.

Included among the governor's bills, now before the lower house are measures calling for the restoration of direct primaries, four-year term for governor, executive budget, and an amendment to the corrupt practices act to compel candidates to file a list of their receipts and expenditures prior to election.

Not one of these bills will receive the approval of the Republican majority in the assembly, it was declared at the capitol today. Similar proposals were defeated in the assembly last year after they had been approved by the Democratic senate.

Governor Smith is vitally interested in his recommendations for a four-year term for governor and an executive budget. Last week Speaker Machold rejected an invitation from the governor to discuss the proposals with him and several leading Republicans who are known to favor them.

The governor contends these proposals would make for more efficient and better government. Both would have to be brought about by an amendment to the state's constitution, and the governor claims the Republicans in the assembly at least should give the voters an opportunity to express their views.

At least one week of night sessions of both houses of the legislature is in prospect if the final adjournment is to be taken during the first week of April, leaders in both parties declared today. The illness of Senator Mark W. Allen, Staten Island Democrat, greatly delayed the work of the upper house last week. Just as soon as Senator James J. Walker, the Democrat leader of the upper house, gets every one of his 26 Democratic senators present, he intends to pass two more of the governor's proposals, an eight hour day for women and minors in industry and the creation of a state minimum wage commission in the labor department. The Republican assembly is expected to pass the eight hour day bill, but the minimum wage legislation is virtually certain of defeat in the house. Speaker Machold has declared several times he is opposed to the minimum wage proposition.

PARIS COMMENT ON

FEATURED SPRING STYLES.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Paris.—The fashion openings which have already taken place give one a fair idea of what the French couture are stressing. Some dress-makers say frankly that they are anxious to cater to and please their American clients and therefore the modes presented are particularly well adapted to American likes.

This may be one of the reasons that the boyish, youthful and sports type of clothing is so much to the fore, although French women have endorsed these styles with enthusiasm during the season just past.

The first showings of the season have sponsored the little straightline dresses, many of them without belt and others with only a very narrow belt, not always continued all the way around. Still others have the flat, smooth back and circular apron effect at front, which is put on at a very low waistline without a belt.

There are some silk crepes, but above all, alpaca or satin are used for these little dresses.

Blanche Lebourvier has a number of alpaca weaves, both plain and fine, always in black, but relieved by white lingerie collars and cuffs, and by pipings or other touches of color. There is, for instance, a slim black alpaca buttoning all the way up the front to a high collar. Under the collar is run a wide, soft scarf tie of scarlet georgette knotted loosely at the front.

Cyber is another who employs a great deal of alpaca, plain and satin faced, this latter used on both sides in the combination of dull and shiny which is one of the strong features of the season.

The dull crepes while still used, have been in less interesting models and with less fashion value than these shinier fabrics until now, with the exception of the house of Jean Calot, which makes a distinct feature of crepe Romain. This house emphasizes Pompadour prints as well in crepe de chine with rather bright bunches of flowers sprinkled over them.

If one wants to go as far as linking up some of O'Rossen's double-breasted suits with the redingote of the Directorate, it may be possible to find hints of this influence, although O'Rossen, as it happens, is not making double jacket for spring. The position has also reflect it.

All of the dresses are not straight-line, of course, although some of the houses do keep almost exclusively to it, both for daytime and evening. Still others show a number of circular skirts for afternoon, some being cut from a large round piece with a hole in the middle which goes around the waist.

In the neckwear so far seen, there is a tendency to get away from the stereotyped Peter Pan and bateau effects, and one sees the irregular collar, falling to a point at one side, or the jabot placed at one side.

To get back to the silhouette, while the circular skirt may be used for afternoon and dinner gowns, the straight sheath is the favorite for evening, and embroideries, both thread and bead, are used for decoration of these sheaths. Embroideries are comparatively little used for daytime wear.

Cooper to Speak At "Y" Banquet

One Of National Capital's Leading Civic Workers To Address Men Here March 23—Has Travelled And Observed.

William Knowles Cooper of Washington, D. C., is to be the speaker at the men's banquet of the Y. M. C. A. which is to be held Friday evening, March 23, at 6:30 o'clock. William C. DeWitt is chairman of the program and it is expected that there will be the largest group of men representing the various churches and congregations of this city that have gathered together in some years past. Mr. Cooper is one of the strongest platform speakers in the east.

In May 1923, Mr. Cooper attended the European Conference of Boys Work at Pörschach. At this conference there were delegates from forty-eight countries and here he got from the delegates from the various countries much vital information concerning the conditions prevailing in those countries.

But he got some valuable first hand information through personal observation on his trip after the conference when he journeyed through central and eastern Europe taking in nearly all the "new" nations which are struggling to satisfy their own people and also to gain a permanent place in the world.

His journey took him through Yugoslavia, Hungary, Austria, Germany, Czechoslovakia and Poland, and through Belgium and Holland, indeed through every country from the Atlantic to the Russian border and from Hungary on the south to the Baltic Sea.

He was peculiarly well situated to study the conditions of the people because he had as traveling companions persons who, because of their residence and work in those countries, could put him in touch with inside, vital information. He spent considerable time in the cities of Vienna, Prague, Budapest, Warsaw, Vilna, Berlin and others, and came in contact with matters of interest that the casual traveler would not know of. He spent a week on the Polish National Railroads and on this trip came within sight of the Russian border.

A keen observer like Mr. Cooper got a lot out of this trip and he has a wonderful story to tell. He has made a number of addresses in Washington on European conditions and has been told by a prominent newspaper writer and others who are in a position to know, that he has given an accurate description of European conditions.

But there are many other things that may be of interest which pertain more directly to Mr. Cooper and his work.

He is the immediate past president of the Washington Rotary Club and during his presidency last year led the club to an even greater place of importance in the community. He is a popular member of the club and has the loyal support of its members.

He is also director of the Federal American National Bank of Washington and has a large share in shaping the policies of the bank, one of the foremost institutions of its kind in Washington. He is on important committees of the two trade bodies in Washington, the Board of Trade and the Chamber of Commerce and is an active member of the City Club, an organization made up principally of business men.

In philanthropic and welfare circles, his influence is very great in Washington. He is a member of the executive committee of the Washington Council of Social Agencies and really has a very large part in the organization of the council. He is a member of the executive committee of the Boys' Club, an organization which is supported mainly by members of the Rotary Club. He is also a member of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America and is officially connected with the local Boy Scout organization. His unofficial influence however, is very great in everything having to do with welfare work.

Nationally, he is chairman of an important committee of the Commission on Missions of the Congregational World Movement. He is also connected with the Federal Council of Churches as a member of the national body and of their finance committee, and a member of the Washington Committee of the Federal Council.

He is also a member of the executive committee of the Washington Federation of Churches.

At the request and expense of the government he made a special trip to Panama to give a series of addresses throughout the isthmus at all the government club houses and at other points on the isthmus. He made quite a stir down there it would seem from some of the letters which were addressed to the president of the Washington Association commenting on the splendid service rendered by Mr. Cooper.

He took charge of the financial campaign for the Masons of Washington to raise sufficient money to buy a large tract of ground on the northwest section of the city for the erection of a United Masonic Temple building. The amount raised was nine hundred thousand dollars—a large sum for the city of Washington.

The men of Kingston will be glad of this opportunity of hearing Mr. Cooper and the Y. M. C. A. has already begun elaborate plans for this occasion.

Not every person engaged in the pursuit of literature is sufficiently swift to catch it.

WAYSIDE WISDOM

Here's wayside wisdom from the Thomastown Times-Enterprise:
The business woman who advises folks to play poker probably has plenty of luck and sorry opponents.
The American girl who married a Turk prince must have been temporarily blind to her opportunities.
When she trumps your ace just smile and pretend that it might have been otherwise but not any better.
The heart may long for peace and plenty and yet it won't come unless the hands are at work to bring it about.

Queer Dueling Weapons Used in the Balkans

It doesn't pay to be personal in the Balkans. The duel is still an institution there, and the weapons used in affairs of honor are sometimes rather awe-inspiring. For instance, a duel was fought with sharpened scythes in Jugoslavia recently, says London Answers.

Stronger still was an "affair" of some years ago. The combatants quarreled over a game of billiards, and decided to fight a duel with a single billiard ball—the red. A coin was tossed to see who should throw first. The winner hurled the ball with such force that it struck his opponent's temple and killed him.

Simon Lake's Concrete Houses Quickly Built

Utilizing principles that he developed in designing concrete ships, Simon Lake, inventor of submarine boats, has perfected a method of manufacturing houses of any size and any style of architecture that is specified, from precast concrete slabs of standardized sizes, which he declares can be put up like Aladdin's palace, virtually overnight.

The Lake houses, their inventor writes in the Popular Science Magazine, may be of any type, from a small bungalow to a skyscraper, according to the architect's plans. The exterior finish may be brick, stone, stucco, or whatever else is desired.

The houses are said to be rain-proof, moisture-proof, cold and heat-proof, earthquake-proof, and all but indestructible, and their inventor declares they can be built for one-half the cost of brick or frame construction. Small houses, he says, can be built in a day.

Berlin Is Bicycle City

Berlin is now the leading bicycle city of the world, having displaced Copenhagen as the town with the greatest percentage of cycle users. Every morning and evening the streets leading from the suburbs to the business center of the German capital are filled with hand workers, clerks and business men who have found that bicycles are cheaper and more dependable than the street cars and the elevated and underground railways. The enormous increases in carfare, coupled with drastic cuts in the service, have caused thousands of middle-aged residents of greater Berlin and nearby cities to ransack their garrets or cellars for the discarded cycles of their youthful days, either for their own personal use or for the purpose of selling them to eager buyers of second-hand wheels at from $10 to $20 apiece. Makers of bicycles are reaping a harvest filling the demand for their output at prices ranging from $30 to $40.

Gravity Fled Mack's Court

Gerald Fitzgerald Unprovenly Acquitted—St. Joseph's Holy Name's Best Smoker.

Monday night at St. Joseph's Hall, the Holy Name Society held one of their most successful smokers. The piece de resistance was a mock trial. "Judge" John P. Mack, the famous Filian jurist, proved all that was expected of him. He was absolutely unfair in all his "decisions."

The task of selecting the jury was so ridiculous that the very large audience could hardly contain themselves on their seats.

Gerald Fitzgerald, the "Adonis" of St. Joseph's, was accused of beating Frank Murphy, "the Fordham Flash," at the auto show, March 6. The cause brought out in the trial was an argument over the relative merits of a Ford and a Pierce Arrow.

Mr. Fitzgerald was ably defended and abetted by Walter Miller, and, said to say, by "Judge" Mack.

Mr. Murphy's interest was well taken care of by Thomas Coughlin. The spectacle of two of Kingston's young lawyers who are rated so highly in their profession, conducting a trial and trying to bring out the most absurd situations was a treat in itself and was very cleverly gotten over.

After a spirited and hilarious examination of the several witnesses, the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty" and Mr. Fitzgerald was "discharged."

One of the high lights of the trial, and also one of the saddest, was brought out that the foreman of the jury, William Flanagan, the genial custodian of the K. of C. building, formerly for many years lived in Bruceville.

The Amarello Brothers entertained in their usual pleasing style and were roundly enjoyed.

The Rev. Frank O'Reilly gave a very witty and entertaining impromptu speech.

After the smoker a hot luncheon was served.

Father Duggan thanked all who took part in this, the society's best smoker, and assured them of another in the near future.

Jews Who Made Him Custodian Say Their Loss is $10,000.

Hudson, March 11.—The police are searching for Samuel Ruben, who is alleged to have fled with several thousand dollars belonging to the Jewish merchants who had done business through him. The police say a check up has revealed a shortage of $10,000 and that it probably will be much more.

Saturday Harry Burkmann, who had entrusted various sums to Ruben to be deposited in a bank, said he found a $300 shortage. He went to see Ruben but was told Ruben was ill and could not see him. Sunday the news spread and a frantic check of accounts followed. Late in the day a crowd called at the Ruben home and Mrs. Ruben said her husband was out of town. Then the police received a complaint.

Where Judges Get Little.
Austrian judges are the most poorly paid of all state officials. Those holding the chief positions, and most highly qualified, receive only 3,000,000 crowns a month—not much more than $40, and this after from twenty-five to thirty years' service. So poor, in fact, are some of the judges that they cannot afford to buy their official robes or talars, and reside in court in the shabby clothing. The state is supposed to furnish them with talars, but has not done so for the last two years. Letter carriers, railway men, policemen all receive their uniforms free, but the judges must find their own or go without.

IT'S GREENE'S BUSINESS.
SAYS GOVERNOR SMITH
By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, March 11.—Governor Smith refused today to comment on incidents in the highway department which led up to the resignation of Lowell Grossman, of Poughkeepsie, after he had been demoted by Colonel Frederick Staurt Greene, for the alleged misuse of a state automobile.

"I know nothing about anything that has happened in the highway department; that is up to the superintendent of public works," the governor said.

It was reported that Mr. Grossman had written a letter to the governor explaining his position. The governor said, however, that he had not received any word from the former highway chief.

Arthur Brandt of Albany, promoted to commissioner of highways by Colonel Greene to succeed Grossman, has assumed active charge of the highway department.

ESOPUS DISTRICT 15.
CONDEMNNS PORTER BILL.
Richard Donnelly acted as chairman at the meeting to discuss the Porter bill at School No. 15, town of Esopus, March 10. The meeting was called to order by Thomas Pennergast, who introduced the chairman amidst great enthusiasm. The purpose of the meeting having been stated, W. Trueman of the New York State Rural School Improvement Society, was called on to explain the objects and working of the bill should it pass. The speaker was given profound attention from start to finish and a rousing cheer at the close of his remarks, which were in part as follows:

"For opposing this bill, I have been charged with being an enemy of education. This usually comes from those who are obsessed with the crude notion that a formal education puts one beyond the necessity of work. That a number are so obsessed is quite true, and they must be reckoned with. To do this intelligently requires study of worldwide conditions and an acquaintance with the conclusions of the highest authorities. For myself I take second place to no man in my reverence for knowledge. The labor I have bestowed on securing what little I possess is proof of that, but I have not asked you to accept my views, I have stated facts and asked you to judge them in the light of present conditions, while for those who prefer to rest on authority let me give you the names of a few well known men prominent in public affairs and who can be relied on as being conservative and highly respected citizens. Dr. Gilbert Murray, Cardinal Gibbons, Lord Northcliffe, Stanley Baldwin, Israel Zangwill, Dr. James Pritchett, Thomas A. Edison, Dr. Chas. I. Smith and many others.

The statements of these men prove that while the dissemination of knowledge is their life work, they are far from agreeing that the present popular craze can in any proper way be dignified with the word education, and like myself strongly deplore the present scheme of taking advantage of the belief of many that secondary education is the one way out of all our difficulties.

We must not lose sight of the great fact that our rural schools are far nearer meeting the real need of the rural people than any other plan so far proposed. That they are not perfect is clear to all but this is merely a truism that applies to our homes and our farms with equal force. The real point being that we do not rush to the legislature to cure a bill to wipe out every farm home because some of them are not supplied with bath tubs and hot water heat.

We are going to stand by our rural schools, our teachers and trustees, we intend giving the teachers a chance, support to the trustees, remedying as far as possible the condition the powers that be have allowed to develop.

The meeting was then thrown open for discussion, many of those present taking part in it. Some opposition developed on the part of one or two individuals who were promptly challenged by some of the ladies and in a few moments a battle royal was in progress in which the ladies proved their ability to hold their own in discussion as well as in parliamentary law. The point stressed by each in turn was, retention and improvement of our rural schools, no bosses and home rule for our district. A resolution was offered and passed that the meeting go on record as opposed to the Porter bill. Another resolution was made that a delegate be elected to represent the district at the hearing on March 19.

PRYOR IRWIN

Congressman Charles F. Scott of Iowa, Kan., editor of the Iowa Daily Register, had these words of specific praise of Mr. Irwin in his editorial, which devoted more than a column of space to a review of the work accomplished in that town:

If the chamber of commerce and the Ad Club had done nothing more this year, and should do nothing more than to bring Pryor Irwin here for the three days community building institute, they would have abundantly justified their existence, and well repaid the investment that has been made in them.

The Register can think of no other word that so well fits the results of this institute as the word revival. Revival means a quickening into life, and certainly the spirit of civic pride and business ambition and friendly cooperation, the three things which are the most important factors in building up a community have been wonderfully quickened by the inspiring and suggestive lectures we have heard from Mr. Irwin. Code Messages Baffle Probers

Committee Examines Lot That Were Sent During Negotiations of Doherty et. al. With Albert Fall.

Washington, March 11.—A new batch of telegrams that passed between Albert Fall, E. L. Doherty, E. B. McLean, Harry F. Sinclair and other figures in the oil scandal, were placed before the senate public lands committee today.

Most of these messages comprised the gleanings from the files of telegraph companies in Three Rivers, N. M., where Fall has his ranch, and where, it is alleged, the preliminary negotiations for the leasing of Teapot Dome were carried on between Fall and Sinclair.

The committee went over the telegrams behind closed doors for more than an hour, while an impatient group of witnesses waited outside.

A number of new code messages were discovered in the batch, which committee members were unable to translate, but which they believe related to the leasing of the Dome to Sinclair. These were turned over to W. F. Friedman, the army cipher expert, who has decoded similar messages.

Washington, March 11.—The far flung activities of E. B. McLean and his associates in connection with the oil scandal were under fire again today before the senate public lands committee.

Winding up its work of examining some of the baffling code messages preparatory to calling McLean himself tomorrow, the committee summoned John F. Major, the publisher's confidential agent, and the leader in the moves behind the scenes to prevent McLean's appearance upon the stand.

The committee desired particularly to question Major about the secret meeting of McLean and ex-Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall in Atlantic City last December, when, according to evidence before the investigators, the story of the famous $100,000 loan was "framed." That conference just preceded McLean's departure for Palm Beach and Fall's letter to the committee declaring he "borrowed" the money from the publisher. Previous testimony before the committee also indicated that at the time of Fall's letter, McLean knew the $100,000 had been loaned to the former secretary by E. L. Doherty, lessee of Elk Hills.

Major went to Atlantic City but did not attend the conference, he said.

The two White House attaches, E. W. Starling, of the secret service force and E. W. Smithers, telegrapher, who have been under subpoena for more than 10 days, also were ready to testify.

Some interesting developments were expected when the committee examined today a new batch of the famous McLean-Fall telegrams. Most of the new messages were from Three Rivers, N. M., where Fall's ranch is located. The subpoena called for all wires sent or received there by Fall, Harry F. Sinclair, Colonel J. W. Zevilly, Colonel Robert Stewart, of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, and H. M. Blackmer of the Midwest Refining Company. Managers of the Western Union and Postal companies also laid before the committee messages sent or received by Mrs. McLean and Mrs. Fall in Washington, Atlantic City, Palm Beach and New Orleans.

The oil scandal investigation will be concluded within two or three weeks under the program mapped out today by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Mont.

Following McLean's testimony the investigators plan to go over the reports of the expert accountants who have been examining books of leading stock brokers in Cleveland and Washington and New York. These books revealed only two governmental officials, Senator Elkins, Republican of West Va., and Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty having dealt in Sinclair stocks.

After this phase is completed, Sinclair will be questioned again.

The investigation of the story attributed to Leonard Wood, Jr., that his father was offered support for his presidential candidacy in 1920 in return for naming the late Jake Hamon secretary of interior, is the last big phase of the oil scandal inquiry on the schedule.

After that, the committee will throw its full support to the efforts of the special counsel, Owen J. Roberts and Allee Pomerene, to recover the naval reserves in the courts.

BANDITS TAKE TRUCKS $20,000 CLOTHING CARGO

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, March 11.—A truck loaded with $20,000 worth of clothing was captured early today in North Yonkers by four bandits who kidnapped the driver, according to reports to police here and in Yonkers. The truck was later found abandoned, minus its cargo, at Fort Washington and Madera avenues, Manhattan.

Byron Simpson, of No. 7 Simpson street, Poughkeepsie, the driver of the truck, reported the holdup to police. He said he was taking the clothing from H. B. Rotherthal, 69 Fifth avenue, to a Poughkeepsie customer and as he reached Warburton avenue, North Yonkers, near the home of Samuel Untermyer, a touring car drew alongside and four armed men got out of the car and climbed aboard the truck.

Simpson and his two helpers were forced into the touring car and taken to 163rd street, the Bronx, and put out.

JAPAN TO ASK CHANGE
IN "GENTLEMEN'S AGREEMENT"

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Tokyo, March 11.—No matter what the fate of the Johnson anti-alien bill in congress is, Japan will request a revamping of the "gentlemen's agreement." It was learned today from sources close to the government.

It is not believed here that it will be possible to get diplomatic action until after the forthcoming election in the United States. But it was said on the best of authority that immediately thereafter a request similar to one made months ago will be pressed.

This called for an agreement which would provide that bankers, business men and few chosen students would not suffer under the classification of immigrants while handling Japanese business in America and Japan will agree not to use the 240 quota possible under the percentage plan in the immigration laws, feeling that this number would not relieve the congestion in Japan by immigration.

IF RHEUMATIC BEGIN ON SALTS

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure, Eat No Sweets.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat no sweets of any kind for a while, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of Jad Salts occasionally to help keep down uric and toxic acids. Rheumatism is caused by poison toxins, called acids, which are generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this poison, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove the body waste also to stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

Weevil Poison Kills Bees
Poisoning cotton plants in the fight against the boll weevil has caused considerable loss of bees in the cotton belt and reduced the amount of honey ordinarily produced in that section.

Von Kahr Tells About Revolt

Nationalists. Couldn't Possibly Succeed, Because of France and Poland, He Testifies.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Munich, March 11—Dr. Von Kahr, former Bavarian dictator, who caused the collapse of the Nationalist revolt here last November, was the star witness today in the high treason trial of General Erich Ludendorff, Adolf Hitler and eight others.

Von Kahr denounced the Nationalist aims, as "fantastic and disastrous" for the German state. He declared the proposed Nationalist march upon Berlin would have made a conflict with France and Poland inevitable.

Von Kahr was a member of the celebrated "beer hall meeting" on November 8, when the putsch was arranged, but after the meeting he turned against the revolutionists along with other high Bavarian officials. This gained him the nickname of "The Double Crosser" among the Bavarian Nationalists.

Up to the time of the revolt Von Kahr had been known as the "Bavarian Bismarck," but since that time he is one of the most hated men in the country.

Von Kahr has a bulldog face and a stern eye. He is short, but gives the idea of power.

He gave his testimony in a dry, unemotional voice. He said that the background of his dictatorship was to bring about a strong, united Germany. He said he wanted to keep Bavaria in the Confederation of German States.

Von Kahr read a long document containing detailed statistics.

Music Study Club

The Music Study Club met Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Edith Leverich. The lesson was studied with much interest. After the study Miss Edna Williams very pleasantly played "Trottoire" by Meyer, and Miss Grace Berryman, "Dreaming and Awakening," by Oesten. The expression and technique displayed indicated a bright future for her. Two new members were added to the club. Refreshments were served. The afternoon proved both profitable and entertaining.

Origin of "Cat's Paw"

There is a fable in which a monkey used a cat's paw to draw roast chestnuts from the fire. This fanciful tale gave rise to the use of the term "cat's paw" for dupe or tool.

Amounts That Will Be Shipped From Where Grown and Price Comparisons With Past Years.

The stocks of wheat, corn, barley and oats on farms in the United States this month are valued at $1,236,136,427 according to estimates made public Monday at Washington by the department of agriculture.

The department made public the following figures obtained from the department's correspondents and agents:

The amount of corn on farms March 1, 1924, on basis of entire crop was about 1,153,175,000 bushels or 37.8 per cent of the 1923 crop against 1,093,306,000 bushels or 37.6 per cent of the 1922 crop on farms March 1, 1923. The ten year average 1912 to 1921 is 37.5 per cent.

About 19.6 per cent of the crop will be shipped out of the counties. The proportion of the 1923 crop which is merchantable is about 80.6 per cent against 83.3 per cent of the 1922 crop and the ten year average is 80.1 per cent.

The amount of wheat on farms March 1, 1924, was about 133,871,000 bushels or 17 per cent of the 1923 crop against 155,474,000 bushels or 17.9 per cent of the 1922 crop on farms March 1, 1923. The ten year annual average is 19.2 per cent.

About 63.4 per cent of the crop will be shipped out of the counties where grown against 67.3 per cent of the 1922 crop and the ten year average is 58.1 per cent.

The amount of oats on farms March 1, 1924, was about 44,844,000 bushels or 34.2 per cent of the 1923 crop against 42,118,000 bushels or 34.6 per cent. The ten year average is 37.1 per cent.

About 24.7 per cent of the crop will be shipped out of the counties where grown, against 25 per cent of the 1922 crop and the ten year average is 28.9 per cent.

The amount of barley on farms March 1, 1924, was about 44,844,000 bushels or 22.6 per cent of the 1923 crop against 42,169,000 bushels or 23.3 per cent of the 1922 crop on farms March 1, 1923. The ten year average is 24.4 per cent.

About 34.6 per cent of the crop will be shipped out of the counties where grown, against 36.6 per cent of the 1922 crop and the ten year average is 44 per cent.

Women Workers in U. S.

There are today more than 8,500,000 women gainfully employed in the United States, representing an increase of 474,000 in the last ten years. This is nearly a quarter of the entire female population over ten years of age, while 20 years ago the proportion was nearer a sixth than a fifth. And we get this total increase in spite of the marked decrease in domestic servants, for in 1900, with a much smaller population, we had over 2,095,000 servants, while in 1920 we had but 1,012,000. Women are leaving not only their own homes, but other people's! In factory, store and office young women find companionship and freedom out of working hours which more than compensates them for the better pay and lighter labors of housework, and we may expect this exodus from the older trade to continue, at least until private service has been recognized and its status raised.

A Horrible Dream

Their life had been very happy for a year. Not a cloud had marred their perfect felicity. Then, one morning, the wife came down to breakfast morose and wretched.

She was snappish with her husband. She would hardly speak to him. And for a long while she refused to explain her unwelcome conduct.

Finally, though, the young man insisted that he be told why his wife was treating him so badly. She looked up with tears in her eyes and said:

"John Smith, if I dream again that you kissed another woman, I won't speak to you again as long as I live."—Delineator.

"Without the gate."
